Hearing Room C, Legislative Office Building

ORAL TESTIMONY WILL BE BY INVITATION ONLY

The enacted 2022-2023 State Budget provides workforce development funding for programs newly being administered through Empire State Development Corporation (a.k.a. Urban Development Corporation), the Department of Economic Development (DED), and the Department of Labor. The enacted 2022-2023 State Budget also provided significant funding to develop shovel-ready sites to attract businesses to locate or expand in New York State, support the network of Centers of Advanced Technology and Centers of Excellence located on our colleges and universities as well as other economic programs. This session, legislation was also enacted to support the expansion of the semi-conductor industry through the Green Chips program which will authorize qualifying semi-conductor businesses to be eligible for significant tax credits through the Excelsior Jobs program administered by the DED. Green Chips also included provisions for workforce development by any company seeking assistance.

The Members of the Committees are seeking information as to the overall effectiveness of the workforce development programs funded in this year's enacted 2022-2023 State Budget to ensure that these programs are coordinated, equitable and inclusive to meet the needs of both businesses and workers.
